

Statement

Quattro Design Architects Ltd is committed to supporting all of our staff and clients and ensuring healthy and safe working conditions for the prevention of work-related injury and ill health in all aspects of the services that we provide. This commitment is illustrated in this policy statement, which forms an integral part of the company's integrated management systems.

The company understands and accepts its duties under the Health and Safety at Work Act 1974 and all other associated legislation and other requirements, to ensure, so far as is reasonably practicable, the health, safety and welfare at work of all our staff clients and others who may be affected by the understanding.

The company recognises that all people are to take reasonable steps to care for the health and safety of themselves, and of any other persons who may be affected by their acts or omissions at work. These statutory requirements are viewed as a minimum standard, with our objective being to achieve the highest practicable levels of Occupational Health and Safety (OH&S).

We recognise that successful Health and Safety management plays a part in achieving greater efficiency at work and we are committed to eliminating hazards and to reduce OH&S risks compliant with the ISO 45001:2018 health and safety management standard.

Quattro Design Architects Ltd and its Directors are ultimately responsible for ensuring that we meet our legal obligations. They will ensure that adequate resources, in the form of training, finance and empowerment, are available for this to be achieved.

The co-operation and consultation with all staff, clients and other consultants is seen as key to successful OH&S management. To this end, all are encouraged to be involved in the continual improvement of OH&S Management System. All staff will be given the necessary information, training and instruction to allow them to undertake their duties in accordance with their own and the company's legal obligations.
