

QUATTRO GOES ABOVE & BEYOND

GLOUCESTER, 23rd April 2023 – Quattro Design Architects' own Helen Paull quite literally went above and beyond on Friday 19th May, flying herself over one of Quattro's projects to photograph the site.

A qualified pilot, Helen – an Associate at Quattro, took to the skies to take a look at the Foston's Ash Inn, located near Stroud. The popular pub has been closed since December 2022 and will re-open once the extension and refurbishment works have been completed, under the watchful eye of Quattro.

The works at Foston's Ash Inn include renovations and remodelling of the bar / restaurant, extension to the kitchen, a new pergola. Listed Building Consent has now been approved, and the Working Drawings are underway, paving the way for a fresh, new start for new owner, Will Lloyd-Baker.

The proposed alterations and extension will enhance the existing building and create a more functional space for customers. The new kitchen extension will enable the chefs to cater to a larger number of customers and serve a wider range of dishes. The new pergola will provide customers with an outdoor seating area, allowing them to enjoy their meals al fresco. Guests will also be able to view Will and his talented team of chefs preparing meals as they walk past a set of new windows on the approach to the venue's entrance.

Helen said: "As I approached Foston's Ash Inn the scale, form, materials and massing of the building came into view and it became clear that our design approach for the new extension was spot on! The alterations and extension will not only enhance the building's aesthetics but also create a fabulous space and setting for customers all year round. As the pilots (pun intended) of this project, we are excited to see the project progress and ultimately witness Will's talented team of chefs in action and see guests enjoying their meals. The sky's the limit, and Foston's Ash Inn will soon take off once again."
