

SENIOR MANAGEMENT PROMOTIONS

GLOUCESTER, 18th APRIL 2023 – Quattro Design Architects, a leading architectural practice in sustainable design, has announced a series of senior management promotions that will strengthen the company's strategic planning and ability to deliver strong, sustainable designs for clients.

Jonathan White and Kate Da-Costa-Greaves have been promoted to Associate Directors, alongside Rob Gage who has been promoted to Senior Associate – Financial Controller, and Matt Moody, who has been promoted to Senior Associate. All four promotions recognise the outstanding contributions made by each individual to the company's success and are part of a wider reorganisation of the company's management structure. Quattro's Senior Management Team is now better poised to take advantage of the company's vast experience, spread across a range of sectors from residential to health, education to commercial and leisure.

In addition to his promotion, Jonathan White is Chair of Constructing Excellence Gloucestershire, an industry platform that delivers excellence for clients, industry, and users through collaborative working.

Kate Da-Costa-Greaves, who is actively involved in local networking events, has championed the highly successful Gloucester Development Professionals events that connect all property and development industry professionals, promoting greater local relationships to benefit the city of Gloucester. Kate has previously served as Chair of CIOB Gloucestershire and Junior Vice of the CIOB South West Region, representing the region at the 2014 Annual CIOB Member's Forum & Timezone Conference held in Qatar.

Rob Gage, who joined Quattro in April 2018 as Financial Controller, will continue to manage all finance and accounting operations and contribute to the company's financial strategy as a member of the Senior Management Team.

Matt Moody, who has progressed rapidly at Quattro since joining in 2013, is now part of the Senior Management Team and will play an even more active role in the company's strategic planning going forward.

In a joint statement, Quattro's Joint Managing Directors, Richard Fellows and Robert Walder, expressed their confidence in the newly reorganised management structure, saying, "With this latest round of promotions, Quattro is in a great position to continue growing and delivering amazing and sustainable designs for our clients. Our strong and technically capable Board of Directors and Senior Management Team will help us achieve the company's strategic goals and continue to motivate and inspire our dedicated team."
