

GLOUCESTER, 17th May 2024. Quattro Design Architects, a leading architectural practice in sustainable design, celebrating its 40th anniversary throughout 2024, hosted a number of clients and other stakeholders at the historic Blackfriars Priory in Gloucester on Thursday 16th May.

The event celebrated Quattro's 40-years in practice, but remained very much focussed on the future of the business. Surprising clients, contractors and staff alike, Quattro announced a new sister brand, to sit alongside Quattro, catering for its high-end clients. Una Architectural will now lead all luxury residential and bespoke hospitality projects, drawing on Quattro's vast experience and resources. The Quattro brand will continue, as it has for 40-years, to deliver exceptional architectural designs to the housing, later living, healthcare, education and commercial sectors, whilst continuing its expansion into defence and leisure.

In Gloucestershire, alone, Quattro has - in recent years - completed headline projects, such as; the refurbishment of Shire Hall, the new Black Dog Way development, Pate's Grammar School's 6th Form Centre and Northgate Mansions. Current projects also include the re-development of Clapham Court in Kingsholm, the design of a brand-new GP surgery in Hucclecote and the expansion of Westonbirt Preparatory School.

Quattro Joint Managing Directors, Richard Fellows and Robert Walder, said: "We are incredibly proud of our dedicated team during this exciting chapter at Quattro. Not only are we celebrating an impressive 40-years in business, we're also celebrating the launch of Una Architectural - our new high-end brand. At this important junction in our story, we felt it was the right time to introduce, alongside Quattro, an exciting and elegant new brand to better represent the wide range of projects we undertake. We're looking forward to continue working collaboratively with our existing clients as well as building new relationships as the business continues to expand."
